

Institute for Communication & Dignity

Communication is Dignity

Profile

The Institute for Communication & Dignity (ICD) is an independent initiative dedicated to promoting communication that is respectful, accessible, and understandable.

The Institute examines the impact of communication in society, public administration, healthcare, education, and digital environments. Its mission is to foster understanding, strengthen participation, and highlight the essential role of communication in protecting and promoting human dignity.

Areas of Focus

- Communication and Human Dignity
- Accessible Communication
- Inclusion and Social Participation
- Communication in Healthcare
- Communication in Public Administration and Politics
- Research, Analysis, and Public Dialogue

Founder

Detlef Leiss

Detlef Leiss founded the Institute for Communication & Dignity (ICD) in 2025. The Institute was established on the conviction that communication is far more than the exchange of information: it creates trust, enables participation, and forms an essential part of human dignity.

Press Contact

Institute for Communication & Dignity (ICD)

An der Eisenbahn 19
31535 Neustadt am Rübenberge
Germany

Phone: +49 5032 9670745

E-Mail: mediaservice@icd-institute.org

Web: www.icd-institute.org